A damaged section of Lake Wohlford Road north of Escondido may remain closed for up to a week after a landslide struck over the weekend.

A Sunday-morning assessment of the damage from falling dirt and rocks determined the road is likely to be off limits for a week, according to the San Diego County Sheriff's Department.

Escondido police said they were notified Saturday morning of the slide. Authorities expect to keep the road closed between Foxley Drive, at the north end of the city, and Woods Valley Road south of Valley Center until a geologist finds that there is no danger of further slippage of a hillside above the road.
